"Their Name Liveth..."

P. J. Whiting.
In their season the poppies still blow in "Easter" fields, but the forests of crosses that once marked the graves of British and Canadian dead have vanished. Even the poppies in the well-kept military cemeteries have largely given way to snow-drop and daffodils, wall-flowers and tulips.
For the graves of our Canadian dead an earnest effort is being made to introduce native Canadian shrubs and flowers. In this gentler climate, flaming tiger lilies, yellow "ladies' slipper," red willow and even a few strawberry shrubs yield a breath of the prairie summer to the resting place of our exiled sleepers.
At the conclusion of the war the vast battle-areas were literally strewn with the dead. Thousands still lay where they had fallen months and even years before. Many thousands more lay in shell-holes, abandoned trenches and roadside ditches perfectly covered with a few inches of earth. Dotted over the landscape were hundreds of small graveyards. Three or four men killed in a trench were hurriedly buried in the nearest back garden. Large field dressing stations during a major action would keep a simple working party busy digging a long common grave wherein the fatalities would be laid regardless as to whether the grave was in the middle of a wheat field or angled across what once was and would eventually be, a country lane. Probably not more than half of the total fatalities had been properly buried in established cemeteries. Permanence was subservient to the exigencies of the moment. The dead were everywhere.

It was the tremendous task of the War Graves Commission to rally the stragglers of these vast dead legions into large central burying grounds, the land being donated in perpetuity by the French and Belgian governments. Not the least difficult phase of the job was that of identification. Most of the solitary graves had lost all visible signs of identity as the war-pow turned its "arrow" through the years. Moreover it had been the custom when burying a comrade to send all valuable papers and personal effects to headquarters leaving only one of the two discs that all ranks were supposed to wear. These discs stamped with the bearers name and number were made of a fibre composition and, according to the field men of the War Graves Commission were subsequently to prove almost worthless. Despite the very real handicap it is the proud boast of the commission that they have been able to identify at least sixty-five per cent. of the bodies found and reburied.
While the known graves of these cut-lying sleepers have long ago been attended to the task is not yet ended. Ever since the Armistice thousands of war-metal seekers, French, Swiss, Russian—all nationalities—have been potently digging over the battlefields in their search for brass, copper, lead and iron. Frequently the diggers uncover the remains of a British soldier. The Commission likely as not to answer your murmured greeting in rich Cockney or Scottish accent.

The little headstones are identical in size and shape differing only in their regimental emblems and the brief legends they bear: "Major... Killed in Action, May 8, 1915." "Pte.—Died of Wounds, April 6, 1917." "To an Unknown Canadian Soldier." General and private, millionaire and bootblack, are all equal here. The Commission has been adamant in preventing the erection of ornate monuments to the lost ones. Equal sacrifice here merits equal commemoration.
A few of the larger cemeteries hold 10,000 or more graves. Tyne Cot, east of Ypres, is such a one. Situated on the slope that overlooks the patch of ragged scrub that was once Sanctuary Wood it presents a view from the road along the ridge that is heart-grIPPING.
Thirteen thousand graves! And the beholder can pick out each one! A sea of white headstones!
Those eager young faces that laughed from the train windows not so long ago, those tanned, strong hands that gripped yours confidently; those dapper khaki uniforms that so wearily walked away to the awaiting transports; those boys to whom you wrote and who thanked you for your parcels, that legion of youth for whom you prayed—of whom you boasted the lads you fooled into fighting your mad war, the fellows you hypnotized by your hands and your speeches and your sermons, the youngsters you, with your white feathers, shamed into enlisting—here they are at last!
Those gallant chaps whose blood you had vowed to shed to the last drop rather than accept anything less than complete

O.E.S. Officers Visit Lacombe

Members of Alexandria Chapter 4, O.E.S., Lacombe, were hostesses to nearly one hundred persons on Tuesday evening of last week, the occasion marking the official visit of their Worthing Grand Master, Mrs. E. Grace Scaife, of Calgary. Other prominent visitors were Mabel C. Hartman, Associate Grand Master, Ods; Edith Dewson, Grand Conduetress, Edmonton; Charlotte Price, Alex and Edna A. McPeck, Three Hills. Members of the Board of General Purposes of the Alberta Grand Chapter; Mary M. Harwood, Calgary, Grand Marshal; Margaret Mann, Lacombe, Grand Steward; Charles Stewart, Carstairs, Grand Sentinel. Chapters represented were, Fidelity 40, Three Hills; Victoria 14, Stettler; Carstairs 62, Carstairs; Battle River 47, Ponoka; Mountain View 1, Ods; Ods 10, Alex; Minnah 6, Calgary, Allanby 38, Edmonton; Edmonton 19, Edmonton; St. Hilda's 27, Disabury.
A most inspiring address on the principles of the Order was given by Mrs. Scaife, with brief speeches from other members. A very pleasant lecture was the presentation by Miss Ora Norris, Red Deer, on behalf of Alexandria Chapter, of a fish platter with silver linings to the Worthing Grand Master, who expressed her appreciation. Mrs. Anna Olden, and Miss Jessie, Ramsey, Past Masters of Alexandria Chapter, were also delighted recipients of Honorary Certificates presented by Mrs. Scaife, in distinction of their having reached a twenty-one year membership in the O.E.S. Mrs. Alden was suitably responded for by both Miss Olivia Edmunds, Worthing Master and R. L. Taylor, Active Master. Patron conducted the Lodge business in their usual able manner. Refreshments were served at the close and a pleasant social time spent.

TOOK THEIR TIME
Burglars on Friday evening last, prying up a door in the rear of Jenkin's Grocerette, in addition to taking what change the cash register held, absconded with a quantity of tobacco, chocolate bars, etc., before leaving the premises, however, the marauders made a hearty meal. They helped themselves to various provisions from the shelves, washing the meal down with ginger ale and other soft drinks, and being up-to-date smoked many cigarettes during the progress of their feast. The police were notified when the discovery was made, but there being some eighty transients in town that night, no clue to the thieves was obtained.

GOOD RIDDANCE
Hazing has been abolished at the University of Alberta, at any rate the frenzied hazing which from time to time has supplied a blot upon the record of most Canadian institutions of learning.
We hope that the abolition is permanent and that the example of Alberta University will be followed by others in Canada.
Nobody has any objection to a reasonable expression of animal spirits on the part of students. Nobody who is reconciled to the inherent snobbery of any large group of human beings, objects strongly to the imposition of indignities upon newcomers—since in this world the newcomer is traditionally due for a certain amount of suffering.
But when this not particularly intelligent custom is abused to an absurd and dangerous extreme, it is time public opinion expressed itself. It is a tragic, but an indisputable fact that a certain type of mentality governs the mass movements of students in some of our places of alleged higher learning. It is that peculiar barbaric pack instinct which glows in the eyes of a mob, and so truly, Mob (and sometimes women) who are individually kind, imaginative, acceptable members of society appear to be infected by a quaint insanity when they come under the influence of a group. They do things (probably because they are afraid of the opinion of their companions of the moment) which in their more sober moments alone, they would contemplate with horror. And they become monads.
Most cruelly springs from lack of imagination and lack of intelligence rather than from any inherent viciousness of character. It is curiously ironic that this form of unimaginative and unintelligent cruelty should have expressed itself so strongly on occasions at those institutions which pretend to specialize in imagination and intelligence.

The Y.W.A. of St. Andrew's United Church will hold a Sale of Work on the evening of Dec. 2nd, in the Church Hall. Please keep this date in mind.

Saturday is Poppy Day

The Last We Forget Club wish to bring to your attention that Saturday, November 5th will be Poppy Day.
It is hoped that this year every place of business will display a wreath or spray and every citizen wear a poppy for remembrance. Every Veteran poppy or wreath has been made by a disabled soldier.
Poppies will be sold on November 5th, by members of the Last We Forget Club.
Aims and objects of the Poppy Day are—(1) To pay tribute and bring again to the memory of all citizens the men who sleep beneath the poppies in France, that due remembrance is shown in some tangible form the 11th of each year.
(2) To provide employment for disabled ex-service men engaged by the government in War work.
(3) To create a small fund in the district where poppies are sold which can be applied as relief in any deserving case.
(4) To help provide funds for taking care of genuine adjustment cases of disabled returned men.

PONOKA NEWS
A destructive fire took place in the Ponoka district early Sunday morning when the residence, barn and outbuildings of Ben Olmstead were destroyed as well as a quantity of grain.
The warehouse of the Imperial Oil Company was entered between Saturday night and Monday morning and considerable oil and grease, etc., taken. The Skinner garage was also entered, presumably by the same parties, but nothing appears to have been taken. The police are making an investigation.
Mr. Chas. M. Clark had the misfortune to lose his automobile through fire Saturday morning. He was transferring gas from one drum to another preparatory to refueling and had a lantern. The gasoline exploded with the result that his car and garage became a total loss. A friend's car, standing nearby was also badly burned.
A number of Ponoka people attended the opening of the Bentley Municipal Hospital on Thursday. The people of Bentley are to be congratulated on having such a splendid institution in their town.
Mr. Dave Jones had the misfortune to break a wrist while cranking his car the other day. Notwithstanding his troubles he will still carry on with his clerical work.

Tees Happenings

Mr. A. W. Ardley, Sr., wears a broad smile now because he recently became a grandpa, the stock having arrived at the home of his son Harold, who resides in Fort Saskatchewan, and left a baby girl.
Mrs. E. R. Fry is suffering with a very sore eye.
Mr. E. R. Fry who has been incapacitated the past few weeks is now able to be at his work again. We are all glad to note his improvement.
Mrs. A. W. Ardley is looking forward to a visit from her mother, Mrs. Willows in the near future.
Nearly everyone has finished threshing and are now feeling better even though poppies are low.
We are all sorry to learn that Pete Montgomery had to be taken to the Lacombe hospital—last Friday because of a badly ruptured appendix. We hope he will soon recover.

Allx Notes

Mr. Thomas Hodgson of Kitchissippi and Dr. R. O. Hodgson of Saskatoon were guests for the first two days of this week at the home of their sister, Mrs. J. F. Flewelling.
"Remembrance Day" will be observed by the Legion on Sunday, November 13th, when a public service will be held in the afternoon at their hall. Appropriate music is being arranged and the three divisions of this district have been invited to take part.
George Matthews is carrying one of his wings in a sling as the result of breaking a bone in his wrist when he slipped and fell last Monday while helping to load a car of wheat.
Henry Sargent met with a similar accident and he too is carrying his flipp in a hanging basket.
The ladies of St. Pankras Guild held a very successful bridge party at the home of Mrs. Yarwood on Tuesday last, five of the members being responsible for the tables, Mrs. Davis being the lady with the highest score and Mrs. Edgar winning the consolation. Mrs. Yarwood served a very dainty lunch at 5 p.m.

Great Changes Wrought By Development Of Electricity During The Past Fifty Years

It is only fifty years since the first electric generating plant began operation. New York has been celebrating the occasion half a century ago when Edison pressed a button and a new era had begun. Even those who have lived in the transition and on through the "wiring" period are scarcely aware how much a part of life electrical power has become, how great is the change that has been wrought. It is only on those rare occasions when the power goes out that the lesson is forced home.

A modern business office takes its elevators, its telephones, telegraphs and light as a matter of course. The citizen takes electrical power, transportation and street lighting as all in the regular scheme of things. Even the average household starts the day with an electrically run coffee percolator and toaster, and as a matter of course counts on the electric iron, hot water heater, vacuum cleaner and so on, until the bed light is snapped off.

Electricity is taking over bigger and bigger responsibilities in industry. Last year, in the United States, industry and business consumed a total of 52,162,000 kilowatt hours of electrical energy for lighting and power.

It has transformed the theatre by making lighting effects (heretofore undreamed of) possible, and in all the ramifications of cinema. It has become a handmaid to therapeutic medicine; and agriculture, starting with the portable utility motor, is more and more claiming its aid. Already it is a recognized factor in the poultry business, and enough knowledge is now available to realize that it might and doubtless will be still more widely used.

There is a promise of large scale domestic heating and of cooling apparatus. Refrigeration, both for industry and home use, is now common. The day of a "private sun" with ultra violet rays guaranteed for every home is on the programme.

Ships in the air and ships at sea know electricity, from the simplest lighting devices to intricate machinery which seems almost to have occult power.

In all this development circling the globe, it is a point worthy of note that this community stands out as the electric capital of the world. Winnipeg uses more electricity per capita than any other city, and it can obtain it more cheaply for both domestic and industrial use.

In an era definitely open as something new in history, a time when a great conquest of nature has increased man's power a thousandfold, it should mean something to Manitoba in general and to this City in particular, that it is not only among those in the vanguard but that it is leading the procession.—Winnipeg Free Press.

Canadian Flier Gives U.S. Crowd Thrill

Takes To Parachute When Inverted "Plane Loses Wing"

Kenneth Unger, Canadian Great War flier, provided 10,000 spectators at the Hadley Airport Near Brunswick, N.J., with an unscheduled thrill. He was entertaining with an exhibition of stunt flying when the left wing of his plane was torn away while he was flying upside down at an altitude of 3,500 feet. Unger jumped from the machine with his parachute and landed unhurt. Just before leaping he turned off the ignition and probably prevented a serious fire when his plane crashed near some houses a half mile away.

Wild Amusement

A commercial traveller, having missed his connection, found himself with two hours to spend in a small village. He approached an ancient porter.

"Got a picture house here?" he asked.

"No."

"A billiard hall or library?"

"No."

"Well, how on earth do you amuse yourselves?"

"We go down to the store of an evening. They've just got a new baconseller."

"Yes. How did you guess?"

Taster For Produce Firm

Cleveland Man Has Held Job For Forty-Five Years

It's lucky Edward Price likes olives, for he earns his living by eating them. For 45 years he has lived in a world of olives. Amid long rows of casks and barrels, stacked one atop another, Price goes about his work of tasting and smelling every consignment of olives to a produce firm at Cleveland, Ohio.

Recently a shipment of seven carloads of olives from Seville, Spain, augmented the stock of the company to the largest in its history—and Price must taste an olive from each container.

The seventy-one-year-old taster eats no breakfast so that his sense of taste may always be on edge for his daily task. At noon he eats but lightly of soup and rice pudding.

"I do my heavy eating at the evening meal," he smiled. "Healthy? Say I'm as healthy at 71 as I ever was. I like to eat. Besides olives, I must sample preserves, mustard, peanut butter and extracts but that doesn't spoil my appetite for supper."

Making Leather At Home

New Methods Make Home Tanning Now Fairly Easy

In these days when advantage has to be taken of every possible economy interest is revived in the home tanning of leather. A number of inquiries as to how this can be done have been received by the Publications Branch of the Department of Agriculture, and to meet the need a special circular has been prepared. This deals with the several processes of fleshing, liming, dehairing, tanning, testing, softening and finishing leathers and hides of different kinds. While the old tanning bark method involved a long period of time and a lot of work many new methods make the home tanning of leather fairly easy.

There is a promise of large scale domestic heating and of cooling apparatus. Refrigeration, both for industry and home use, is now common. The day of a "private sun" with ultra violet rays guaranteed for every home is on the programme.

Mal-De-Mer At Home Easy

How To Accomplish It Told By One Of The Chief Doctors

Why go to sea to be sea-sick, when you can do it easily at home? Dr. T. Gwynne Maitland, medical superintendent of the Cunard Lines, after months of work and study, now makes mal-de-mer at home easy, so that everyone can enjoy this delight, surprise his friends, etc., without previous training, costly apparatus or the bother of buying a steamship ticket.

Here's Dr. Maitland's prescription: Regular training on a revolving chair, with the head held in as many positions as possible.

Walking round a stick, increasing the number of revolutions gradually from two to 20 for each position of the head.

Try it some time. It's jolly fun! Sea-sickness, Dr. Maitland explains, is caused by upsetting man's tiny balancing apparatus—three semi-circular canals in the bony part of the interior of the ear.

The degree of disturbance, he says, is controlled by such factors as alterations in the chemical composition of the blood, movements of the stomach and optical effects produced by a rolling ship.

Little can be done to control these influences, the Cunard doctor reports, but his home prescription is about as good a preventive of sea-sickness as can be suggested.

Aboard ship, he says, the soundest advice is to take part in deck games, dancing, and so on.

To study the causes and effects of sea-sickness thoroughly, Dr. Maitland says, the Cunard offices at Liverpool, England, elaborate apparatus to stimulate sea travel at various degrees of roughness.

Dauntless volunteers from the company's staff were his victims, adding, in their martyrdom, a little to the world's knowledge about this curse of the marine traveller.

Improving Moscow Streets

Over Nine Thousand Miles Will Be Modernized This Year

Rapid strides are being made in paving Moscow streets. Machines are giving way to asphalt in all directions and the time is in sight when the life of a motor car in Moscow can compare with the average length of usefulness abroad.

Interesting in this connection are the figures given by the Planning Commission. It is stated that 155 million square metres of street are being asphalted in Moscow this year. Taking ten metres (thirty feet) as a fair average width, it appears that 15,500,000 metres or 15,500 kilometres of street will be modernized before the end of the year. This is equivalent to 9,887 and one-half miles—a man-sized paving job.

This mammoth task is, however, dwarfed by the plans for the second five-year plan. One billion square metres or, on the same scale, about 62,500 miles of shaly pavement are to be laid throughout the Soviet Union in the next five years.

Recently a German process of cold paving has been introduced and is said to have speeded up the work materially. Experiments are also being conducted with various other paving materials, including cork, rubber, and iron.

Cobbles, rightly held to be absolutely unfit for modern conditions, are to disappear completely.

Canadian Wheat Has High Protein Content

Average Has Steadily Increased During Last Five Years

The average protein content of Canadian wheat has been in general steadily increasing during the last five years and present indications are the 1932 crop will maintain the high figure of a year ago, the grain research laboratory of the Board of Grain Commissioners has reported.

Both Saskatchewan and Alberta show to date higher average protein content, grade for grade, than last year, but the survey represents mainly the wheat from southern and central sections of the province and the final figures are likely to be somewhat lower.

A Generous Tip

The porter ran along the platform as the train began to move off to give a passenger the ticket he had got for her. "Here's your ticket, ma'am; six and a tuppence it cost," he gasped. "Here's six shillings, my ma'am," said the flustered old lady, handing out of the carriage window. "Keep the tuppence for yourself."

Initiation Is Banned

Initiation of freshmen at the University of Alberta will be tolerated no longer, according to a decision by the student's council. Serious injury to two students during the initiation incidents this term prompted the council to take this drastic step.

Nearly 7,000,000 pipes for tobacco smoking were made in Britain last year.

The chameleon is the only member of the reptile family that can focus both eyes upon the same point.

Miniature Tower of Babel

The nursery of the Canadian Pacific liner "Montrose" sounded like Babel in miniature during the voyage ended recently. Five unaccompanied children speaking three different languages were passengers. Left to right: Irene Pump, German, three and a half; Jacqueline Des Forges, six, Arlette Des Forges, three and a half; French; Zdzislaw, six, and Zofia Clerka, three and a half, Polish. The children were all joining parents who preceded them to Canada. The four stewards speak 10 languages between them.

Every Canadian Pacific liner has a number of stewards and stewardesses who are fluent in foreign tongues. They are distinguished by coloured collars in the case of stewards, and a narrow ribbon (such as may be seen at either end of the picture) on the snowy caps of the stewardesses.

Unaccompanied children are not an unusual problem, either. Never a voyage passes but what some motherly stewardess has in her care an unaccompanied child who may be anything from six months to 16 years of age. And they seem to have more fun than many of the adult passengers.

Grading Is Desirable

Establishment Of Grades Desirable In Co-operative Marketing

The current issue of the "Economic Annalist," official organ of the Federal Agricultural Economics Branch, is the source of the following statement: "The establishment and maintenance of grades is particularly desirable in the case of co-operative marketing. The grower of a good commodity should receive a premium for the extra care and efficiency involved in producing a superior product."

Canadian farmers or business men handling farm products who are looking for new markets must bear in mind that their products will meet competition from other areas and produce other countries. It will pay to supply trade requirements and competitive practices and to build a sales policy around a product sold on the basis of standardized grades.

Preparing School Lunches

Phamphet Provides Some Interesting And Useful Suggestions

A very interesting pamphlet, No. 148, "School Lunches," has just been issued by the Dominion Dairy and Cold Storage Branch. Keeping the school lunch appetizing, attractive and satisfying is always a problem in the rural community. This little pamphlet contains a very interesting analysis of the subject and provides some interesting and useful suggestions which serve a real need throughout rural Canada. A copy may be obtained without charge on application to the Publications Branch, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Having Hard Time

According to figures issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics three electric railways ceased to operate during the year. Twenty of the 52 systems operating in Canada failed to earn operating expenses, a number to them showing heavy deficits. Radial railway systems have a hard road to travel, with steadily decreasing patronage, and the outlook for increased business anything but promising.

China has a road-building campaign.

Analysis Is Made Of Number Of Live Stock And Distribution Throughout Provinces Of Canada

Lonely Vigil Not Over

Mounties In Northern Outpost Not To Be Relieved This Winter

If you look at your map of Canada, you will find Ellesmere Land away up in the north. Up there, just six hundred miles south of the North Pole, are three members of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. They are keeping an outpost of Empire at Bache Peninsula. The trio expected some relief this year, but they are to be disappointed. Instead of being withdrawn about two hundred miles south to Craig Harbor, at the southern tip of Ellesmere Land, the three Mounties must maintain their lonely vigil until the ice breaks next year.

Back to Montreal has come Inspector T. V. Sandys-Wunsch, who is in command of the Eastern Arctic subdivision of the Mounted Police. He was in charge of a party of constables relieving others in the far North. Going up on the S.S. Ungava, the trip to Bache Peninsula was frustrated when the sturdy little vessel could not make headway against the ice in Rice Strait leading to Buchanan Bay. Other reliefs were made in due order, but the lonely three near the North Pole will have to wait another year. They have ample supplies, so will not be in danger of hunger or cold.

It takes courage to stick it for three years away up in the polar regions. But to the Mounties that sort of work is just in the general routine of duty. They carry the Union Jack to the Eskimos and preserve law and order. The drama of Empire is still a stirring story in some of the far-flung outposts, where lonely redcoats form the link between the native and the outside world.—Border Cities Star.

Discontent That Is Hurtful

Forgetting Past Losses Wiser Than Dwelling On Them

It's "Biljanslam" run mad that says things are comfortable for most people. Nobody with eyes in the front of his head subscribes to any such spineless doctrine. Further, there is a discontent with present circumstances that is altogether healthy. The Slough of Despond must be wriggled through if one is not to be choked with its slime. The man who is not nauseated by the nastiness of his situation is a "poor fish."

At the same time there is a discontent that is hurtful in every way. It is the discontent of a man who is not in the spirit. It kills the heart. It fills the throat with spit. It magnifies every woodchuck till he looks like a lion. All this is to the bad.

Times may be hard, but they are not all hard. Why not cast up the side of our account book and see our citizens' losses? It is a good policy to forget our losses long enough to make a good use of what we have. It is wise to forget the irrevocable past by rising from our dumps to get at what we may win today, thereby making a stepping stone for tomorrow.

The hero was not a hero but also a philosopher, who said: "It's not too late to seek a newer world... to strive, to seek, to find and not to yield."

This is the spirit that grasps the nettle, clears the eye, steadies the heart and makes a man free. A man is only master of his destiny when he is master of himself.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

How England Punished

Reckless Motor Driver

Young Men Disqualified For Quarter Century and Fined

Disqualified from driving a motor car for 25 years and in addition being fined $15 and costs, Frederick James Grant, 20 years of age, was thus severely punished by the police in Woolwich, England, for reckless driving. He had been driving a motor van which swerved across the road, mounted the pavement, knocked down a lamp standard and killed a pedestrian. The young man's excuse was that a jar wrenched the steering wheel of the van out of his hands.

When the population of Canada was officially counted last year, records were also taken of the number of live stock of different kinds in the Dominion, and these records are now available. They show that there are 3,115,582 horses. The horse is therefore still far from extinct, notwithstanding the rivalry of the automobile and the truck. The average number of horses per farm reported is 5.3 compared with 5.7 in 1921. Much the largest number of horses is in the province of Saskatchewan, which almost reaches the million mark. Alberta is second with 732,000, and Ontario third with 577,000.

Milch cows on Canadian farms number 3,510,000 as against 3,228,000 in 1921, an increase of 8.72 per cent. The next largest cow population is in Ontario, but the most rapid increase shows the most rapid increase, the number of milch cows in that province having increased by more than 53 per cent in the last ten years. The average number of milch cows per farm is now 6.3 per cent, compared with 5.4 per cent. The previous census. It is noteworthy that the greatest actual increase in cows has been in the Prairie Provinces—Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

Other cattle total 4,498,000, which is a falling off of about 12½ per cent. since 1921. The only province which shows an increase are Quebec and British Columbia, although the largest number of cattle are in Ontario.

Sheep are raised on 130,000 farms and the total number is 3,622,000, an increase of 13.18 per cent. in ten years. The largest sheep population is in Ontario, but the most rapid increase in numbers is in British Columbia. The number of swine is 4,667,000, an increase of 40 per cent. since the last census. The most rapid increase has been in Alberta, although the largest number are in Ontario, with Alberta second and Saskatchewan third.

The poultry population totals over 65,000,000 and in the last ten years has increased by 51.62 per cent. The largest number of poultry are in Ontario but the most rapid increase is in British Columbia.

The Pedestrian's Paradise

Tangier, Virginia, Has No Vehicles Of Any Kind

A restless few of the 1,500 inhabitants of Tangier, Virginia, may tire of their confinement. That island town in Chesapeake Bay without roads, "no automobiles, no horses and no wagons" and where indeed there is but a single street, though many canals, which are crossed by bridges with gaps in the middle to permit the passage of fishing boats. The place of community intercourse in such a place can not be swift. No ebb and flow of catapulating vehicles, forcing pedestrians to leap out of their skins. No vile contamination of the atmosphere with carbon monoxide and the fumes of burned oil. No rush and roar of inanimate mechanisms in the careless custody of every Tom, Dick, and Harry. In short, no artificial and dangerous acceleration of the pulse of life.

Automobiles On Farms

Seventy-One Per Cent Of Passenger Cars In Saskatchewan In Rural Areas

No less than 71 per cent. of the passenger automobiles in Saskatchewan in 1931 were on farms; 56 per cent. in Prince Edward Island; 54 per cent. in Alberta; 49 per cent. in Manitoba, and only 13 per cent. in British Columbia, and 18 per cent. in Quebec. Although Ontario had the greatest number of passenger automobiles on farms and the greatest number per farm of all the provinces the percentage on farms of total registrations within the province was only 25.7 per cent.

"I Gotta Order More Robin Hood Flour"

At this time of year flour bins are as bare as this youngster. It is time to lay in a supply of good, dependable Robin Hood flour.

Most women now know that the reason Robin Hood flour is so CLEAN and PURE is because the wheat is scrubbed and scoured in mammoth wheat washers before milling. Many, however, have asked this question: "Why is it I get bigger loaves and more of them from a bag of Robin Hood?" Here is one of the reasons:

When the wheat berry is ground in milling, dust and fibre are present. Between your thumb and finger this fibre feels like lint from a carpet sweeper. If left in the flour, it becomes a deadweight to the dough. Robin Hood Mills removes this fibre with an intricate system of silk sieves, some of them as fine as 125 meshes to the inch. Only the pure granules of flour pass through the sieves... the dust and fibre is taken off and used for hog feed.

Dust and fibre present in CHEAP, poorly milled flours retard the action of yeast in the dough, resulting in small, flat loaves, heavy in texture and unappetizing in flavor. Robin Hood flour naturally goes farther in baking because it consists only of CLEAN, PURE flour granules—no dust, no fibre. When mixed in the dough, it responds to yeast gases readily and the bread rises high in the pans, producing more loaves of better bread.

Robin Hood flour protects your health and your pocket book. It is both safe and economical.

S.S. Convention

A convention of Sunday Schools in the Lacombe Presbytery was held in Lacombe, on Thursday afternoon and evening. Owing to the heavy snow storm which arrived that day, the attendance was rather poor, but an enthusiastic, earnest note prevailed throughout the convention. During the course of the afternoon session, Rev. R. B. Layton gave a paper on the "Purpose of Sunday School," and the Rev. H. D. Riggs, of Blackfalds, spoke on "Teacher's Equipment." Rev. T. R. Davies, of Ponoka, gave an interesting account of the World's Convention to the evening session, appealing to his listeners to catch the larger vision of the work being done. Rev. R. W. Hubbard in a forceful address on "Religion! Here! Now!" claimed that the spiritual or unseen things are the only real things, and felt that in these soul-stirring times of depression, an increasing number of people are groping toward a new idea in religion.

Announcement was made of a People's Rally to be held in Ponoka on Monday, November 21st.

Canyon News

Mr. Johnson is glad to be home after several weeks in the Lacombe hospital and though not well, is much improved.

We are sorry to report the serious illness of Mrs. Jenkins. She has not been well for quite a long time. The heavy snow caught several farmers with all or nearly all of their crop still in the stock. There have been all too few days this fall when the grain was sufficiently dry for threshing.

The west side of Canyon Church has been rekindled and in order to provide for the rest of the cost, a popular concert is being given in the Canyon School on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock, Nov. 9th.

The following will take part in the program giving songs, readings, recitations, duets, violin and piano selections. Mr. Cameron Fraser, Miss Dorothy Gates, Miss Margaret Aldwinckle, Miss Olive Christen, Mrs. P. Christen, Miss Flora Christen, Mr. Jas. Clark, Mr. Thos. Clark, Miss Emily Willis, Mr. John Jaffray, and Miss Sarah Jaffray. Come and bring your friends.

Bentley News

Mr. Beacom, Manager Bank of Montreal has resumed his duties at Bentley.

The new hospital is very busy at present, all the wards being occupied. Remember the Chautauque starts on Saturday, and continues until Wednesday. Reserve seat plan at the C.P.R. station. See Mr. Hergott. Many of the Bentley hunters are preparing for a trip in the near future.

Don't miss the Chautauque. It starts Saturday, Nov. 5.

Mrs. C. Hergott and Mrs. Glen Wright are holding a shower on Thursday, at the home of Mrs. Wright, in honor of Miss Florence Miller, whose marriage to Mr. Wm. Grant takes place at the United Church, here, on November 11.

Mr. J. A. Patrick, school caretaker, met with a painful accident this week when he slipped and broke two bones in his ankle.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Baumback, of Bentley, at Bentley Hospital, on Friday, October 28th, a son. Miss Jean Marshall, niece of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Thorp, is a patient in the Bentley Hospital. All her friends wish her the best of luck.

Miss Violet Martin, of Bentley underwent an operation in the Hospital. Her friends wish her a speedy recovery.

The Chautauque programs this year are the best ever. Opening at the Community Hall on Saturday night. Get your tickets now.

Remembrance Day

On Remembrance Day, November 11th, beginning punctually at a quarter to eleven o'clock in the morning, the Canadian Legion and the Lord-We-Forget Club will hold their annual service for the dead in the Memorial Park and the customary two minutes' silence will be observed commencing at the sound of the siren at 11 o'clock.

All organizations are invited to co-operate.

On Sunday, November 13 the United Memorial Service of the Churches in Lacombe will be held in St. Andrew's Church, beginning at 7:30 p.m. A good congregation is hoped for to honor all those who were willing to give up all for freedom—those who stayed over there and others who came back, many of them untried to bear the burden of life. The Rev. R. B. Layton will preside.

Blackfalds News

The United Church Services next Sunday will be at Spruceville at 11, at Canyon at 3 p.m., and at Blackfalds at 7:30. Miss Edith Cadman has been laid up for some weeks with a sprained ankle.

Warm weather favored the Blackfalds Chicken Supper on Wednesday. About three days good weather had been seen since the threshing finished in this district.

Jean's thoughts lashed her. Her shoulders bent and covered a little as though beneath a physical blow.

There had been a time—oh! very long ago, it seemed, before Destiny had come with her smuglers and quenched the twin flames of love and happiness—a time when dimly, as in some exquisite dream, she had heard the sound of little voices, felt the helpless touch of tiny hands. Perhaps Neta, too, had heard those voices, felt those clinging hands, while her soul quickened to the vision of a future which might hold some deeper meaning, some more sacred trust and purpose, than her empty wayward past.

And she, Jean, had stood between Neta and the fulfilment of that dream, forever hiding her entrance to her woman's kingdom.

She saw it all now with a terrible clarity of vision, understood to the full the two alternatives which faced her—to go with Blaise, as he implored, or to send him—her man, the man she loved—back to Neta. There was no longer any middle course.

A voice sounded in her ears.

"No true happiness ever came of running away from duty. And if ever I'm up against such a thing—a choice like this—I hope to God I'd be able to hang on, to run straight, even if it half-killed me to do it!"

The words sounded so clear and distinct that Jean half raised her head to see who spoke them. And then, in an overwhelming rush of memory, she recognized that it was no actual voice she heard but the mental echo of her own words to Nick—to Nick at the time when he had been passing through a like fire of fierce temptation.

How easily, in her young, untried ignorance, the words had fallen from her lips as she had urged Nick to renounce his fixed resolve! Such eminently wise and excellent counsel!

Quick RELIEF from pain

A lot of things can cause a headache or other pain, but there is one thing that will always give you relief! Just take a tablet or two of Aspirin. Your suffering ceases. Relief comes instantly, regardless of what may have been making your head throb with pain.

Aspirin is harmless—cannot depress the heart. So there's no need waiting for a headache to "wear off." It is useless to endure pain of any kind when you can get Aspirin. It is a blessing to women who suffer regular systematic pain; to men who must work on, in spite of eye-strain, fatigue or neuritis.

Learn the quick relief for colds; for neuritis, rheumatism, lumbago. Be sure to get Aspirin—and not a substitute. All druggists sell Aspirin tablets. "Aspirin" is a trade-mark registered in Canada.

body, exhausted by the soul's long conflict, gave way, and she slipped to the ground in a faint.

CHAPTER XXV.

The Eve of Departure

A week later Jean sat at the foot of the stairs and surveyed with faint amusement the motley collection of trunks and suit-cases which thronged the hall.

She was still looking pale and worn, strung up to face her self-imposed exile from the country which now held everything that was dear to her, but no enormity of sorrow would ever blind Jean for long to the whimsical aspect that attends so many of the little things of daily life.

"What a lot of useless lumber we women carry about with us wherever we go!" she commented. "Five—six—seven packages to supply the needs of two solitary females—and Heaven only knows how many brown paper parcels will be required at the last moment for all the things we shall find we have forgotten when the time actually comes to start."

Claire, standing on the flight of stairs above and viewing the assemblage in the hall from over the top of the banister rail, giggled helplessly.

"Yes, they do look a lot," she admitted. "However"—hopefully—"there'll be plenty of room for them all when we actually get to Biernfels."

"Oh, plenty," agreed Jean. "But we've got to convey them half across Europe first—two lone women and one miserable maid who will probably combine train-sickness and homesickness to an extent that will totally incapacitate her for the performance of her duties."

At this moment the front-door bell clanged violently through the house, as though pulled by someone in a tremendous hurry. Claire hastily withdrew and from over the banister rail and disappeared upstairs, while Jean relinquished the accommodation offered by the bottommost step and sought refuge in the nearest of the sitting-rooms, closing the door stealthily behind her.

A moment later Tucker, who had caught sight of her hurriedly retreating figure, reopened it and announced imperturbably:

"Mr. Burke."

Jean greeted him with surprise, but without any feeling of embarrassment. So much had happened since the last time she had seen him, and the Moor, events of such intimate and tragic import had swept her path, that the unexpected meeting failed to rouse any feeling either of anger or dismay. Burke, and everything connected with him, belonged to another period of her life, a life of sunny retrospect, of care-free life when it had seemed as though life were a deep, inexhaustible well bubbling over with wonderful possibilities. Burke was merely a ghost—a revenant from that far distant epoch.

"I'm in time, then?" he said, when he had shut the door.

"In time? In time for what?"

"In time to see you before you go."

"Oh, yes," Jean spoke lightly.

"You're in time for that. But who told you I was going away? I didn't know you were in England, even."

"I don't see the necessity for your wiring you," remarked Jean a little coldly. "There was no need for you to see me."

"That was—very need."

She glanced at him keenly, a new note in his voice, an unexpected gravity and restraint.

"Every need," he repeated. He paused, then went on quickly, with a nervousness that was foreign to him.

"I know everything that has happened—that your engagement to Tormarin is at an end—and I have come to ask you if you will be my wife. No—hear me out!—as she would have interrupted him. "I'm not asking you now—as I did before—because I am sure that I shall be able to win you. I swear I will ask for nothing that you are not willing to give. I'm making no demands, I've learned now"—with a faint, wry smile—"that you cannot force love. It can only be given. And I want nothing but just the right to take care of you, to shield you—to keep the sharp corners of life away from you." Then, as he read her incredulous face, he went on gravely: "If I had wanted more than that, Jean, if I had not learned something—just from loving you, I should not have waited until now. I should have come at once—as soon as I learned from Madame de Varigny that Tormarin's wife was still alive."

She looked at him curiously.

Well Children

"Occasionally I give each of my five children BABY'S OWN TABLETS—I am sure that is why they never have any serious illness," writes Mrs. George Morley, Varney, Ont. This sound advice is contained in each of the 25c packages of BABY'S OWN TABLETS can be given with complete safety to the youngest and most delicate child. Recommended by mothers for teething troubles, simple fever, cold, digestive disorders, constipation, fretfulness. Easy to take as candy.

Dr. Williams' BABY'S OWN TABLETS

"Why didn't you come then, Geoffrey? I sometimes wondered—'you being you'—with a faint smile. 'Because, of course, I knew why you had rushed off to France. Madame de Varigny explained that.' A dull flush mounted to his face. (To Be Continued.)

Wills That Make Trouble

One Can Complicate Matters As Effectively As a Deed

Mention was made in a recent lawsuit arising out of a will of the fact that the testator had made nine last wills and testaments.

This seems a fairly large number, but it is by no means a record. One woman made a dozen wills within a few years, and on the death of a former Duke of Sutherland it was found that he had left no fewer than ninety-two wills behind him.

But if the man who makes a number of different wills may complicate matters for the beneficiaries, the man who makes only one can sometimes do so just as effectively.

In one case a wealthy man was in the habit of lending copies of an elaborately kept diary for the year annually to four of his friends. They soon got bored and stopped reading them. But one of the discoverers by accident, some years after the diarist's death, that he had written his will on page 847 of one of the annual volumes. In it he bequeathed his entire fortune to his four friends. Meanwhile, the estate had passed to a distant relative, and it was only after a long lawsuit that the four legatees were able to recover what was left of it.

Holds Record As Linguist

Dr. C. H. Irwin Conversant With Every Living and Dead Language

The most agile tongue in the world belongs to Dr. C. H. Irwin, who is retiring from the post of editor and general secretary of the Religious Tract Society. He can speak and read more languages than any other living man. French, Spanish, Italian, Portuguese, Hungarian, Dutch, Russian and Chinese are to him almost as easily as English. In addition to this, he has edited the Gospels in nine different languages, including Finnish, Serbian, Polish, Czech, Hungarian and modern Greek. These are living languages; but he is thoroughly conversant with dead languages such as Latin, Greek and Hebrew.

Nor are his linguistic attainments confined to Europe and the Near East. He knows enough of many native African tongues to be able to correct proofs or translations of the Bible. As general secretary of the Religious Tract Society he has had to correspond during his thirty-five years' service with people in most parts of the world, and seldom has he been floored by a letter written in even the most out-of-the-way language. Most of us who know only English have but 5,000 or 6,000 words at our command. Dr. Irwin is master of at least 4,000, 000 words.

Mechanical Progress

New Inventions Have Not Always Proven To Be Unlimited Blessings

Gone is the old unquestioning rapture of the scientist of the Victorian age, who assumed as a matter of course that every triumph of mind over matter, every new harnessing of the forces of nature to the will of mankind must be an unqualified boon, and that all movement must be progress to a better and a happier state. The reflective scientist of today is not so sure. Ultimately, and in the long run perhaps, there must be benefit. But he cannot shut his eyes to the fact that while the mechanical sciences have added enormously to the pageantry and variety of modern life, they have produced by no means unqualified blessings. Industrialism's glaring aim of omission and commission; the perversion of science to the perfecting of instruments of destruction; the terrible ruthlessness of revolving wheels; the smashing effect which a single new invention may have upon the lives and homes of thousands—these have to be remembered when we worship mechanical progress.—London Daily Telegraph.

"What's the idea of the Howards having French lessons?"

"They have adopted a French baby, and want to understand what she says when she begins to talk."

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALICE MICHAELS

THE SEA GULL

The air was filled with voices
Of birds I love at home;
They came each year to build their
Nests

With no desire to roam.

The phoebe and the blue-jay
The mocking-bird and thrush
Poured forth their sweet and joyous
Notes

From dawn till twilight's hush.

They were our friends, and gaily
They sang to us each day;
Not like this strange, strident sea-gull
That wings from far away.

The sea-gull, sailing lonely
Above the tossing waste,
Is like a driven spirit,
Of peace it cannot taste.

The sight of it, still soaring
Above the waves and foam,
Makes yet more dear to me the Thought

Of nesting birds back home!

'Planes Link Trappers

With Trading Posts

Hudson's Bay Company Arranges

Service To Car Fur Lonely Men

The Hudson's Bay Company, one of the oldest of trading companies, is taking steps to keep some of the world's loneliest men in touch with civilization. Its trappers spend the winter in the far-away Arctic regions, many of them three or four weeks' journey from the nearest post at which supplies can be obtained.

Now an aeroplane service has been instituted to care for these lonely men. In the past they have come into contact with civilization often only once a year during their annual visits to the company's trading posts, and supplies have been taken to them during the summer by trading ships.

Now they will be within three days' journey of the great cities of Canada, from which the 800 horsepower aeroplanes will set out, bearing mails and newspapers, food and clothing. Each aeroplane can carry three tons.

The machines are fitted with skis, which enable them to land on snow or ice. Besides taking goods to the trappers they will bring back furs.

Another Hunger Striker

Descendant Of "King Tut" To Starve Until Valuable Relics Released

A descendant of the Egyptian King Tut-ankh-Amen, who for years has claimed the Tut-ankh-Amen treasures from the Egyptian Government, has decided to emulate the example of Mahatma Gandhi, in India, and begin a hunger strike for the possession of the valuable relics.

In a letter to the newspapers, the descendant of the Egyptian Pharaohs says he intended to proceed to the historic temple of Edfu on October 11, the date on which Tut-ankh-Amen died thirty centuries ago. There he will hold to his fast until death unless the authorities hand over the golden treasures.

Fence Built To Stop Locusts

Government Of Buenos Aires Starts Its Annual Fight

Girding for its annual war against locusts as summer approaches, the Government announced that by November it would have 7,600 miles of galvanized iron barriers and 6,200 miles of zinc fencing across the Chaco frontier.

Put together with 9,400,000 rivets, the fencing stops the hoppers before they reach the jumping age.

The pests crawl out of the Chaco swamps, halt at the barriers, are raked up and burned.

Remedy For Diabetes

Explained To Doctors

Treatment With Insulin Can Be Given Through The Nose

The new treatment for diabetes recently explained to the International Physiological Congress in Rome was developed at the Israel-Zion Hospital in Brooklyn, it has just been revealed.

Dr. William S. Collins who developed the treatment and explained it to physicians from all parts of the world assembled in Rome for the conference, is chief of the Israel-Zion Diabetic Clinic.

The old method of giving diabetes sufferers injections of insulin from a hypodermic needle has long been considered unsatisfactory by many physicians because of the tendency of the wound caused by the needle to become infected. Insulin taken through the mouth loses its potency in the stomach.

Through Dr. Collins' experiments in Brooklyn, it was found possible to give insulin through the nose. When this method was first tried doctors said it was found that the insulin would not penetrate the mucous membrane of the nose. Dr. Collins succeeded after repeated experiments in mixing the insulin with other chemicals which made the lining permeable.

Ancient Toads

Amphibians, 1900 Years Old, Released From Wall In Greece

A Pennsylvania toad that survived 33 years in a cannibal is only a runner-up, William Alexander Campbell, professor of art and archaeology at Wellesley College, has revealed.

Professor Campbell said he was supervising the excavation of a Greek theatre in Corinth, Greece, this summer, which according to coins found on the site must have been erected about the first century, A.D.

Suddenly two Greek toads hopped out of a hole just made by a pickaxe in the hands of a workman. The 1900-year-old toads, leaping amphibians shuddered, blinked and hopped off among the ruins. Professor Campbell said.

In one secret society in England there are 21,618 members over 70 years of age, 3,772 over 80, and 106 over 90.

Little Helps For This Week

"In all thy ways acknowledge Him and He shall direct thy paths."—Proverbs III. 6.

In "pastures green"? Not always! Sometimes He

Who knoweth best, in kindness leadeth me.

In weary ways, where heavy shadows be.

So whether on the hill-tops high and fair, or in the sunless valleys, where

The shadows lie, what matter, He is there.

—Henry H. Barry.

The shepherd knows what pastures are best for his sheep and they must not question or doubt, but trustingly follow Him. Perhaps He sees that the best pastures for some of us are to be found in the midst of opposition or of earthly trials. If He leads you there you may be sure they are green for you and you will grow and be made strong by feeding there.—H.W.S.

Cunard House Opened

New London Headquarters Of Line Is Now Occupied

The Cunard House, the new London headquarters of the Cunard Line and its associated companies, the Anchor Line and the Commonwealth and Dominion Line, has been opened in Leadenhall Street, the heart of the shipping centre. The building is planned in a new fashion like a huge letter S.

H. W. Corry, chairman of the company, formed to operate the building, said the structure had been planned long before the keel had been laid for the new liner S34, the giant Cunarder on which construction work has been halted.

He also explained that some of the furniture in the building had been saved from the old liners "Caronia" and "Carmania," the general impression among distinguished shipping men at present is that resumption of work on the S34 will not be long delayed.

HEADACHE

● Frequent headaches mean too much acid. Neutralize the acids with Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

It ends your headache because it removes the cause. Take a little whenever a coated tongue or sour stomach or sluggish bowels warn you of an acid condition. Take it when you've eaten too heartily, or after any meal that "disagrees." Be sure it is genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia, in this bottle.

ALSO IN TABLET FORM: Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets are now on sale at drug stores everywhere. Each tiny tablet is the equivalent of a teaspoonful of genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

Creamery Praised

Below is a letter received by the Lacombe Creamery from The Delaval Company, Limited:

Winnipeg, Man.,
October 20, 1932

Mr. A. H. Webster,
Central Creameries Ltd.,
Calgary, Alberta.

Dear Mr. Webster:—
Following completion of the 1932 creamery butter competitions we have made an analysis of awards in all competitions, including the Manitoba Dairy Convention exhibit, and were impressed by the number won by Central Creameries Ltd., and its branches in every competition across Canada. According to our check-up the awards to your company, including the totalled eighty, including a Challenge trophy and a silver medal.

We should like to congratulate the men responsible for making these exhibits, from Calgary, Carstairs, Delburne, Edville, Elmira, Lacombe, Red Deer, Rocky Mt. House, and Sylvan Lake. They have made a large contribution to the good name of Alberta and Western Canada and to the prestige of Central Creameries products.

Again congratulating you and the men who made the winning exhibits and trusting that they will repeat in 1933, we are

Yours sincerely,
The Delaval Company, Ltd.,
(Signed) Neil S. Dew.

From Morningside

Rev. and Mrs. Cantelon, of Hobbsville visited with Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Wright on Monday.

Rev. M. G. Smith, of Millet, had charge of the service here last Sunday evening. Rev. M. L. Wright will preach in Millet.

The regular monthly meeting of the W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. Sutherland last Thursday afternoon with eight members present. Meeting opened by the president, Mrs. Wheeler, reading 100th Psalm after which all joined in repeating the Lord's prayer. Final arrangements were made for the chicken supper, which will be held on November 8th. Admission, 50c and 25c. A first-class musical programme will be put on.

Government Loan

Part of the enthusiasm which has greeted announcement that a new issue of $30,000,000 will be placed before the people by the Canadian Government, may be due to the anticipated success which has met the National Service Loan, floated some months ago.

In the National Service campaign the appeal to the public was that the investment was sound and remunerative.

alive. Fortunately this appeal has been substantiated. Those who transferred their deposits from corporate savings banks to the National Service Loan have been financially benefited. A $1000 deposited in the savings banks a year ago would today with accumulated interest be $1030. If a year ago $500 had been taken from the savings bank and a $1000 National Service Bond purchased, the value would be $1000, plus $50 interest, plus $30 premium on the market value of the bond, as they are now selling at 103. In other words, the National Service investor has a profit in one year of $90 on $500, while the savings bank depositor has but $30 to $1000.

The new loan is for $80,000,000 and will be of two issues; one of $25,000,000 for three years, netting the investor 4.28 per cent, and the other $55,000,000 for twenty years, at 3.45, netting $4.51 per cent. Both will be offered to the public on Monday, October 31. Of the two issues, $55,000,000 will be used for refunding of a previous issue, and the greater part of the remainder will be required for advances to national railways, the government now making these advances instead as formerly the railway securing funds for deficits by bond issues, chiefly in New York and guaranteed by the government.

The Dominion of Canada is behind this investment. It is obviously more than usually worth while.
